

Seminar Report Dr. Dinesh Chauhan in Hamburg 24.-26.June 2011

By Ulrike Schroeder (Hamburg)

Dr. Dinesh Chauhan is one of the younger teachers of the Bombay group around Rajan Sankaran. While most of the seminars given by those teachers focus on case reports that illustrate the sensation of a remedy or families of remedies, Dinesh's teaching is focussed on how to take the case according to the sensational method. He has developed a unique technique which he calls "case witnessing process".

Dr. Chauhan wrote "An Insight into Plants" for Dr. Sankaran and has already written two own books, the last about case taking in children (Title: A Wander with A Little Wonder: Child-Centric Case Witnessing").

Dr. Dinesh Chauhan visited Hamburg for the second time. Last year he introduced his technique of case taking in general and showed many details in well edited video cases.

This time he gave a whole seminar about case witnessing in children.

In three days time he was able to convey his way of finding the central disturbance in a scientifically structured way in children of all ages.

The first day started with an overview in sensational method and case witnessing. After that Dr. Chauhan guided us thoroughly through video cases, explaining every step and giving significance to every observation of the participants.

Dinesh could show how to apply his technique to children with language skills as well as to those without ability to speak (due to age or disease). One whole session dealt with the mother's history during pregnancy.

In lively discussions Dr. Chauhan could eliminate every objection and answer every question that came from a critical audience.

Dr. Chauhan is an enthusiastic teacher with a good sense of humour along with his serious and ambitious concern to make homeopathy an individual and reproducible science. He still has a lot to teach!
